

The IRGWP Code of Conduct

The International Research Group on Wood Protection (IRGWP) expects its members, sponsors representatives and guests to adhere to high standards of professionalism and behavior. They acknowledge their responsibilities and shall give active consideration to: fellow members; students; guests; the general public; to science; and to the environment.

IRGWP contributors are expected to ensure to the best of their abilities that their scientific contributions and those of collaborators are accurate, and to encourage and participate with fellow members.

Anyone participating within IRGWP shall be treated respectfully and without exploitation, harassment or discrimination at all times.